Social Soundmachine - feeling the music! by Ramon Schreuder (moving interaction.)

Social Soundmachine is a unique interactive tabletop, on which people can play together with music -- it's like a game! It has a special multi-touch surface on which you can move different game-pieces that each produce a sound or effect. For example: there are shapes for beatboxes, strings, filters and many catchy melodies. There's even a microphone object which is able to record your voice! Sounds impossible? Watch this!

In a world where everyone is digitally connected and face-to-face media conversations are getting rare, music can bind people. Social Soundmachine has a great social impact: spontaneous conversations happen between people gathering around it, feeling inspired to collaborate and communicate on a creative level.

The tailor-made audio content was composed with the help of various dj's and producers, to make sure the musical output stays diverse, but wonderfully pleasing at the same time. To enhance the experience even further, Social Soundmachine is also aesthetically pleasing, with an accessible, awarded design: because beautiful things just work better!

The intuitive interaction with physical pieces is as easy as a kids game, making collaborative exploration of all possibilities ultimate fun. Anyone will discover the basics within 30 seconds and you'll feel like a pro after 5 minutes... Creating music was never this social, easy & fun!
